

Global Economic Governance Programme
University College, Oxford

Institut universitaire de hautes études internationales, Genève
Graduate Institute of International Studies, Geneva
Genfer Hochschulinstitut für internationale Studien

The Geneva Lectures on Global Economic Governance

Agenda

Opening remarks by

Mrs. Lakshmi Puri

Acting Deputy Secretary-General of UNCTAD

followed by a lecture on

The WTO and Development:
The Challenges of Trust and Empowerment in Governing Global Trade

by Dr. Diana Tussie

Director, Latin American Trade Network and Director, Department of International Relations, Latin American School of Social Sciences (FLACSO), Argentina

Wednesday, October 3rd 2007, 6.30pm

Graduate Institute of International Studies (HEI)

Auditorium Jacques-Freymond (AJF), 132 rue de Lausanne, 1202, Geneva

Contact: Sophie Fleury (fleury@hei.unige.ch)

The Geneva Lectures on Global Economic Governance aim to profile the work of leading scholars and experts, particularly those from developing countries, on the future of global economic governance and the multilateral trading system, with a special emphasis on the need for sustainable development, the challenge of meeting the United Nations Millennium Development Goals, and the perspective of developing countries.

The Geneva Lectures will combine a series of public lectures held at regular intervals in 2007-2008 with occasional Special Addresses by leading public officials. To promote dialogue between top scholars, experts and policymakers, each lecture will be complemented by commentaries from leading experts in Geneva's international community. All lectures will be open to the public and held at HEI's Auditorium Jacques-Freymond.

The Geneva Lectures on Global Economic Governance are the centerpiece of a joint initiative of the Graduate Institute of International Studies and Oxford's Global Economic Governance Programme on 'Governance and the World Trading System', co-directed by Dr. Carolyn Deere (carolyn.deere@politics.ox.ac.uk) and Matthew Stilwell (stilwell@bluewin.ch).